Haukūnui ko tēnei te mihi matahorahora, ki a koutou.

Once again, I am privileged to present the Chairman's report on behalf of the board of trustees, Te Haaro.

Firstly, I would like to acknowledge the tragedy of the Christchurch mosque shootings on March 15. That day, when 51 lives were taken and another 49 injured by a bigoted racist, is now etched into our nation's history. There can never be a place in Aotearoa for such hatred. It is not who we are.

The past year has been an exceptional period of progressive development at Te Taiwhenua o Heretaunga.

We began the year with a large number of new trustees, who have quickly risen to the challenge of providing governance for this large and growing organisation. As part of their personal and professional growth, we are undertaking a significant programme of development through the NZ Institute of Directors. In six years, we will have a solid base of trustees with professional directorship skills.

This level of capability has become the baseline for Te Haaro, which carries the same strategic, legal and compliance responsibilities as any other commercial board of directors.

I offer my respect and thanks to the current trustees for the energy and commitment they've brought to their roles this year.

Another of Te Haaro's key goals is to enhance communications between TToH and our many communities and whānau. We've already taken a big step with the creation of two new websites.

The Heretaunga Marae site maraewaakainga.com has created a place where whānau anywhere in the world can catch up on news from home. Each marae manages its own page. This is digital connection at its grassroots best.

The marae site is linked with TToH's new operations site, ttoh.iwi.nz, which is a world-first in its whānau-focused approach. The information is arranged by age groups and theme, to make it easy for whānau to find what they're looking for.

TToH is at the heart of Heretaunga. We work hard to build and maintain long-term relationships with our communities. It's where our hapū come together for common purpose; where 12,000 whānau come for some form of care or support; where others come simply for a cultural connection.

We're now also working with our whanaunga in other areas, to expand options for whānau support - mā Māori, mō Māori. The E Hine programme launched at Te Waireka in Ōtāne earlier this year is a prime example, offering a therapeutic residential course for women rebuilding their lives.

Our new organisational model, Ngākau Aotea, will offer innovative options for whānau to lead the design of their care and support at TToH. This is all part of the TToH kaupapa, to help build strong whānau and vibrant communities. Mauri ora ki te mana Māori.

In terms of everyday operations at TToH, I would like to acknowledge our CEO, George Reedy. His leadership is rapidly expanding TToH's portfolio of responsibilities and preparing the organisation to play a lead role in the advancement of whānau wellbeing during the next two decades.

My thanks also to our Kaihautū, Marei Apatu, who is often the face of TToH when our voice needs to be heard in a community, cultural or political context.

Finally, my congratulations to the staff of TToH, who make it all happen, whether out in the field or in the back rooms on campus. You are the ones who deliver "the magic".

Nō reira, me noho ora tātou i raro i te manaakitanga o Io Te Matau.

Tēnā koutou katoa

Every year is busy for Te Taiwhenua o Heretaunga, but the past one seems to have been even more so. The main reason is houses – or, more specifically, the lack of them.

If anyone had told me five years ago we were heading for a national housing crisis, I simply wouldn't have believed them. But here we are. People living in cars are counted as having a roof over their heads. Three thousand families are living in motel rooms. Ten thousand families are waiting for social housing. They're camped in garages and overcrowded houses with nowhere else to go.

It doesn't stop there. Housing insecurity is creating flow-on issues in health, education, employment and family relationships. I know this because Te Taiwhenua o Heretaunga is dealing with it all, every day.

It's concerning that no one in authority appears to have seen this coming. It didn't happen overnight. It took decades to get ourselves into this situation. And we're told it will get worse before it gets better.

Putting that aside, the most important decisions to be made now are those that enable us, as a nation, to build a lot more houses -- quickly.

Community organisations such as TToH can play a big part in this. Collectively and individually, we hold a wealth of knowledge gained from many years of practical experience in the provision of many types of whānau housing.

TToH provides homes for teen parents and unwell whānau needing respite or supported living.

This year we partnered with Corrections to provide a therapeutic residential programme in Central Hawke's Bay for women who want the skills to rebuild their lives.

Six years ago, we opened an architecturally-designed, 11-bedroomed whare, Te Āhurutanga, for kaumātua. Based on the internationally-successful Abbeyfield model, it's a proven success for kaumātua who want the benefits of shared living with independence.

Te Āhurutanga is full, with a waiting list.

Our latest project, Waingākau Village at Flaxmere, will provide 130 high-quality, affordable homes. It will be an exemplar of sustainability and versatility, offering rental and privately-owned homes along with a range of financial pathways to home ownership.

A property-owning democracy is a strong form of society. Everyone has a stake in making a community work. That impetus is lost when we create a disenfranchised population with no stake in the community. They have nothing to lose.

Te Taiwhenua o Heretaunga has repeatedly demonstrated its capability with housing. We could, and would, do more if we had the funding.

Aside from the daily workings of TToH, there are some I wish to acknowledge for the roles they carry out.

I am grateful to our board Chair, Mike Paku, for his steady leadership and unwavering commitment to the ongoing development of TToH.

My thanks also go to our board of trustees, Te Haaro, for their collective dedication and hard work.

Our Kaihautū, Marei Apatu, has my admiration for the unstinting mahi he carries out, to ensure the ongoing development, empowerment, and representation of our marae and hapū.

Last but not least, my sincere thanks to the staff of TToH. I am continually amazed by the energy and wairua you put into everything. You are the heart of Te Taiwhenua o Heretaunga.

A Message from Marei

Waiho rā kia tū takitahi ana ngā whetū o te rangi.

Let it be one alone that stands amongst the stars in the sky.

Rakaihikuroa's plea for a single leader of his people

Whakamātautau i te wā or “testing times” would best describe the past year.

The key issues confronting marae and hapū are unrelenting. Issues of poverty and social deprivation are high. Hawke's Bay Māori have the highest social deprivation score in the whole of this country and a sky-high rate in international comparisons. The OECD rate for social deprivation is measured at 0.1. For Hawke's Bay Māori, it is 0.8.

The many avenues of care and support available to whānau at Te Taiwhenua o Heretaunga are therefore crucial to the wellbeing of many who find it difficult to navigate and engage with mainstream systems.

The team that I lead, Te Manaaki Taiao, is particularly involved with supporting Heretaunga marae and hapū to “keep their fires burning”, to reclaim, reframe and reinstate their role and leadership as kaitiaki over the wellbeing of their whānau and natural environment - ngā taonga tuku iho.

Water also continues to be an issue of prime concern. Going into its sixth year, the TANK (Tutaekuri, Ahuriri, Ngaruroro and Karamu) catchment plan change has a huge bearing on regulating best practice behaviour and attitudes over the use of land and water resource across the Heretaunga Plains, our rivers, streams and aquifer. But the political will amongst the decision makers is such that it is basically allowing the same old practices to continue.

Tangata whenua have been lobbying for change. Our natural environment is suffering from degradation and pollution. Unfortunately, it will take time to put a solution into action. The first requirement is consensus and the will to take crucial first steps.

Another testing issue occurred when the construction of the Craggy track became shockingly evident. The resource consent from the Hastings District Council enabled it to proceed, but overlooked some basic tests.

Te Mata o Rongokako is an outstanding natural landform and feature, but there was no public notification. Neither was there any consultation with mana whenua / tangata whenua about the cultural values and spiritual relevance for Te Mata o Rongokako— Te Tipuna.

Te Manaaki Taiao's report (“Towards an Understanding of Māori (cultural) Wellbeing and survival aspirations that nga hapū o Heretaunga have for Te Mata o Rongokako, Te Mata, Te Karanemanema o Te Mata o Rongokako - Te Tipuna”) was a significant body of mahi.

It describes a rich history, a whakapapa, a mōteatea, the domain of waahi tapu with a spiritual influence for all to adhere to. The report concluded with 42 recommendations, 13 specifically targeting the Resource Management Act. It also highlighted deficiencies in the District Plan, including the need for more robust protection mechanisms.

There are many to thank in regard to the Te Mata project - Dr Anthony Cole and the advisory team, the Kāhui Kaumātua, the interview team, ngā marae maha, kuia and kaumātua.

Earlier this year we launched Maraewaakainga.com. It's a website designed to enable hapū to remain connected with their marae from anywhere in the world.

Hit the button and there is a marae newsfeed, video, pānui or photos.

Maraewaakainga.com - Where We Belong has created a grassroots collective communications strategy for ngā marae o Heretaunga.

Each marae administers its own page - monitoring and responding to whānau making contact.

The result is a responsive website full of grassroots news and events, interactive real-time communication, and information about bigger issues relevant to our marae.

All this mahi continues with a focus on marae and hapū aspirational development, wellbeing of people, and Te Pūtaiao.

Tina tina, taku aho - Be firm be strong my line

Te Ihi o te rangi - With strength derived from Heaven

Ka koe e mau mai na - Thou who art firmly caught

Nāku anō taku matau i ta - By this hook my own making

Who We Are

Te Taiwhenua o Heretaunga (TToH) is the mandated leader of Ngāti Kahungunu ki Heretaunga.

We are a Charitable Trust, incorporated in September 1985.

The geographical area (taiwhenua) of Heretaunga sits within Hastings District.

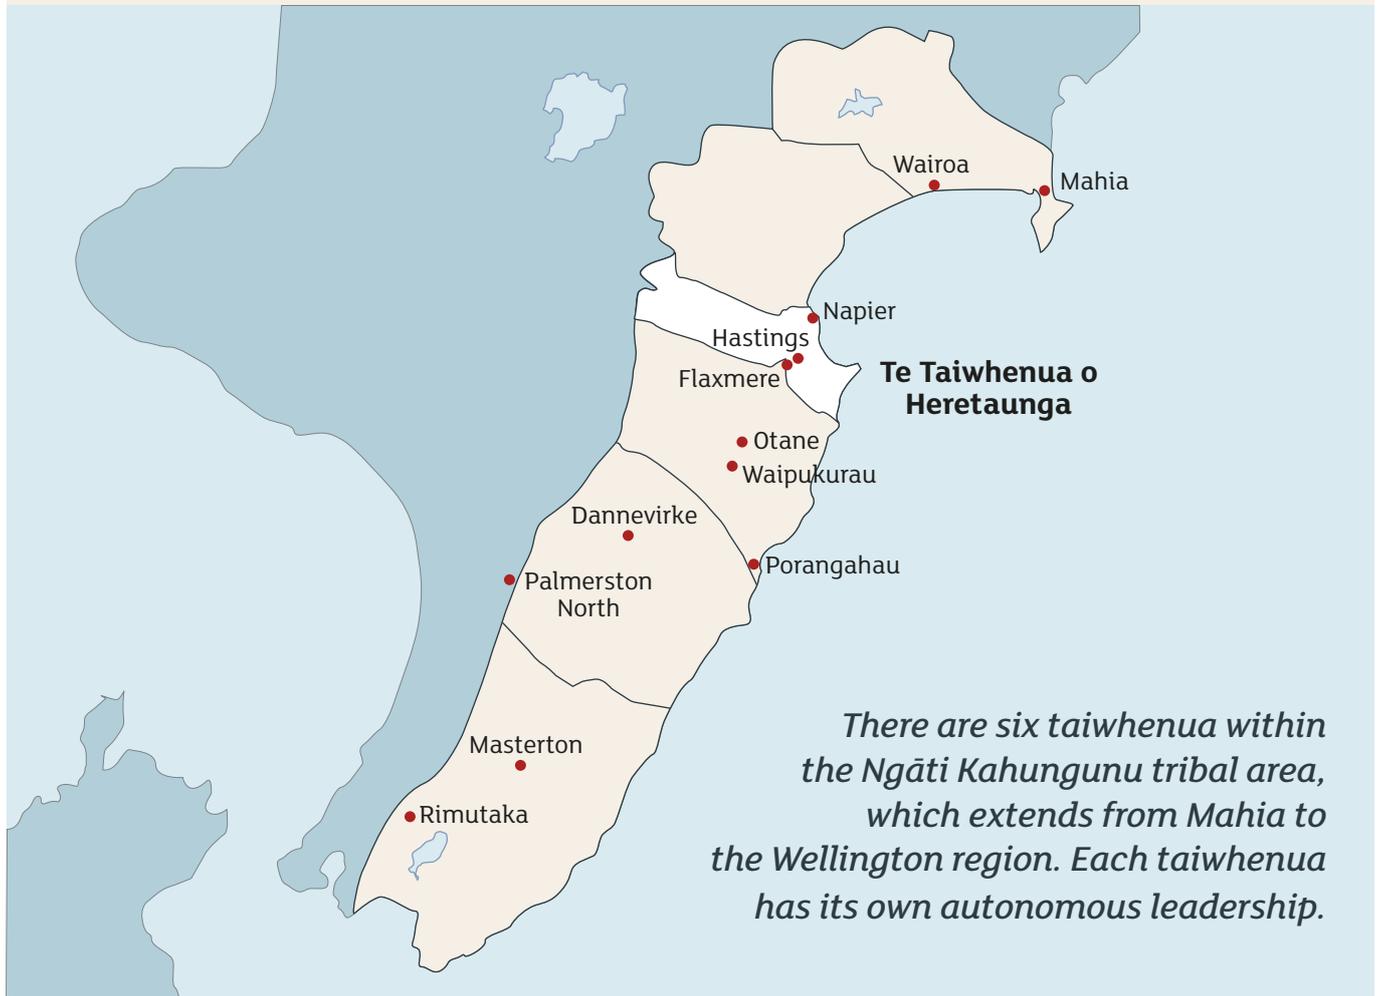

TToH's main campus is in Hastings, but our workforce of nearly 300 staff carry out a wide range of mahi in all the places marked on this map.

We have four core values, which are closely woven into our work and relationships, internally and externally:

- Whanaungatanga: We actively form and foster meaningful relationships, partnerships, alliances and connections among the wider collective
- Kotahitanga: We work together to ensure unity of purpose and direction
- Whakamana: We recognise, respect and uphold the mana of each other and those we work alongside
- Kaitiakitanga: We are custodians of our resources and we enable whānau to be the caretakers of their own taonga

Every three years, the fourteen marae of Heretaunga elect 15 trustees to the TToH board of trustees, Te Haaro, which provides governance and sets the strategic direction of TToH.

Our Whānau

Te Taiwhenua o Heretaunga is working with 12,000 whānau of all ages, in many different ways.

Most of those enrolled with TToH live in or around Flaxmere, but we also work with whānau along the East Coast, from Mahia to southern Wairarapa as marked on this map.

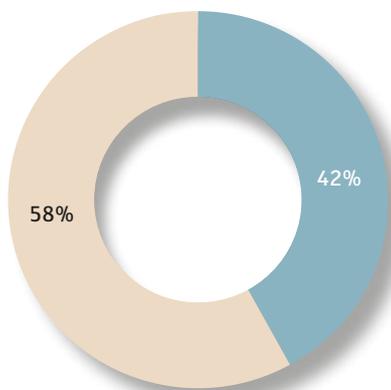

As a kaupapa Māori organisation, TToH works holistically with whānau. We don't tell them what they need. We ask them what they want from us. Then we work with them to achieve it. Whānau who have the support, information and confidence to set and achieve their own goals are better able to lead healthy, fulfilling lives.

Sometimes, it's a simple journey. Sometimes, it's longer and more complex. We're there for them as long as it takes.

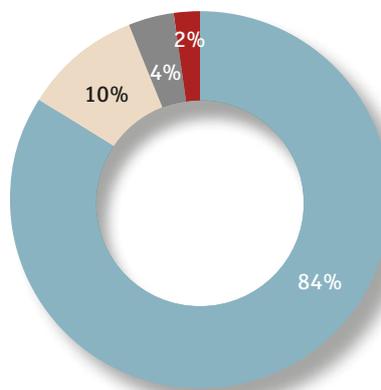

We're even there for those who don't need or want any help from us; who just want a cultural connection. Everyone is welcome.

Community Development Distributions

Every year, Te Taiwhenua o Heretaunga supports the community through sponsorships, scholarships and community grants.

We also help in non-monetary ways. This includes offering placements to tertiary students required to gain practical experience as part of their course requirements.

Left: Te Taiwhenua o Heretaunga was proud to sponsor three Hastings tamariki as members of the New Zealand Blackbots team, who won second place in the international Lego science and robotics challenge in the US.

Tamariki

Taiwhenua programme changed our lives

The Greer family were having a hard time dealing with the behaviour of their four-year-old daughter. Their family life had become difficult.

They decided to enrol in The Incredible Years, one of the parenting programmes run by Te Taiwhenua o Heretaunga.

The warmth and empathy that the Greers encountered at TToH gave them confidence they had made a good choice. And as they progressed, they learned a lot about themselves, their daughter, and some great parenting techniques. Their whole household became calmer and happier. By the end of the course, the Greer family's home life had been transformed.

To find out more about Incredible Years, go to ttoh.iwi.nz or phone 0800 TAIWHENUA.

"We strongly recommend this positive parenting course. We feel we now have the tools to cope with any anti-social behaviour our feisty little daughter can dish out.

She is a little ray of sunshine in our home. We are so grateful for this course. It gave us skills that are effective, rewarding and easy to remember."

A Helping Hand When It's Needed

Family Start is a hardworking team with a long record of success in supporting whānau with a new baby. Sixteen members of the team recently had an opportunity to attend a conference in Auckland and hear keynote speakers who included Children's Commissioner Andrew Becroft, and the Minister for Children, Tracy Martin.

Below: Manager Kara Edwards (front left) said the conference was a stimulating and rejuvenating experience for the Family Start team.

Well Child Tamariki Ora

Our Well Child Tamariki Ora nurses and kaiawhina have had another busy year helping parents to raise happy, healthy tamariki. They track baby's health, growth and development, offer great advice for breastfeeding, plus practical support to enable any parent to be an awesome parent. Tamariki Ora is for babies from birth until they turn five. Find out more on our website: ttoh.iwi.nz

Nurturing Their Space Age Talent

Hawke's Bay's own science and robotics champions, The Blackbots, gained international notoriety earlier this year by winning second place in the Lego international science and robotics challenge in California.

It was a "David and Goliath" situation for the Blackbots. Aged only 10 and 11, they were up against 80 other teams of youngsters, some aged up to 15, from around the world.

Undeterred, The Blackbots beat off some stiff competition to win second place with their virtual reality project, designed to help astronauts stay in touch with their families while out in space.

Back at home and school, these Blackbots, who attend Mayfair and Lucknow schools, still love coming together for specialist workshops.

Te Taiwhenua o Heretaunga is proud to acknowledge the skills and success of these tamariki. They are well down the path of our collective future.

Rangatahi

Te Taiwhenua o Heretaunga has teams of Rangatahi Coaches in Hastings and Waipukurau to help rangatahi get their lives on track.

Budgeting is a key skill for rangatahi wanting to get best value out of their incomes, especially when they're working toward home ownership. These rangatahi celebrated their graduation from Kāinga Sorted earlier this year.

Paris's Story

Paris stopped attending school when family life became too hard. Soon after, she was contacted by a TToH School Attendance Officer.

"It was amazing. It was just what I needed at that time. My home environment had stopped me from doing what I wanted to do.

"She took me through the process of looking at courses, but first she made me feel welcome and asked what I wanted to do. She helped me to enrol and get ready."

Paris went on to complete a Level 4 Youth Worker course during the next six months.

"It was amazing because it was something I truly wanted to do."

The Rangatahi team also got Paris set up financially, followed by budgeting and Ready2Rent courses. Then they helped her get her own place to live.

"The help was there so I felt I could make changes."

"Taiwhenua has set me up to better myself and my future. It's made me follow what I really want to do in life. I've set some goals and I'm going to achieve them."

A Poem from Prison

A 10-minute creative writing exercise has developed into a highly successful method of helping young men develop the skills to live drug-free and constructive lives after their release from prison.

TToH addictions practitioner Valentina Teclici, was surprised by the results of a short writing exercise with a group of young tane at the Hawke's Bay prison's Drug Treatment Unit. She encouraged them to explore and develop their creativity, confidence and mana through writing poetry. Their work was so good it prompted Valentina to collate a printed collection, dedicated to their whānau/families.

A Broken Man

*I arrived at this programme, a small broken man,
Now three months in, it is revealing a plan,
I'm being taught all the tools, so I don't stay a fool,
I have accepted the challenge, to change and grow
And I'm lining my problems up, all in a row
Guilt and shame, anger and rage, lies and drugs
Please someone help me, I need some hugs.
I'm becoming more mindful, I'm going home soon
I am no longer the family baboon,
So I am no longer a broken man,
Here let me show you my Relapse Prevention Plan.*

Whānau Wellbeing

Whānau Ora

The kaupapa of Whānau Ora is to affirm whānau aspirations by building on the strengths and assets of whānau and communities.

Kaiarahi

In the year to June, TToH and Te Kupenga Hauora in Napier worked with 346 whānau, to create whānau plans and achieve their goals.

Their goals related to:

Whānau Direct

TToH and Te Kupenga Hauora also provided Whānau Direct, enabling more than 100 households to access nearly $110,000 of goods and services in “moments that matter” for whānau. Most of these related to their tamariki, such as clothing and education costs.

Takitimu Ora

Takitimu Ora is a collective of Māori organisations with the common goal of improving economic outcomes for whānau. It supported 52 whānau wanting to start or grow their business through KETE (Kreate Enterprise, Tautoko Entrepreneurs).

The programme delivered:

- 10 business workshops
- 142 one-to-one coaching sessions
- $60,000 dispensed as business grants

Above: Hinewai and Cam Ormsby took part in the KETE programme at TToH, while establishing their own business, Napier Māori Tours.

Driving Into The Future

Takitimu Ora also provided the Takatū programme, aimed at assisting whānau to gain a driver licence in order to improve their employment and economic prospects. Takatū assigns a mentor to each rangatahi, to help them overcome any barriers to their progress and success. Programme partners include the NZ Police, Formula Driving School, i-how and PurSuit.

The goal is to turn learners into earners.

Actual successes achieved were:

- 32 learner licences
- 33 restricted licences
- 18 full licences
- 9 endorsed licences

As a result, 15 rangatahi gained employment, and 15 entered education or training.

Working Together to Change Lives

Mananui is a collective of agencies with a common goal multi-faceted project designed to improve the environment, and develop a culture of physical activity and healthy nutrition in our community.

Pou Hākinakina helped 52 whānau to engage in a healthy lifestyle programme.

Mananui also delivered the Mobility Action Plan to more than 330 whānau. This included 10 sessions at partners' gyms and three physiotherapy sessions.

Right Care At The Right Time

Te Taiwhenua o Heretaunga's medical centre, Hauora Heretaunga, is always looking for ways to make it easier for whānau to get the care they need at the right time.

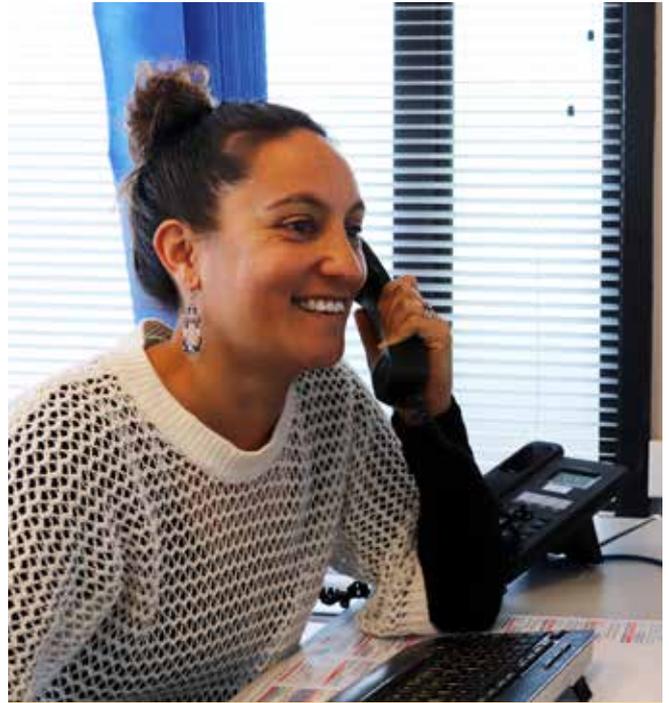

On June 1 this year, we introduced a new system for whānau wanting to see a GP at short notice. They can now phone in and ask for their GP to call them back. They then discuss what needs to happen, and organise it together. Sometimes, this even saves whānau from having to make a visit to Hauora.

"Thoroughly loved it to be honest. I know my sickness so to be managed over the phone and describe my symptoms was awesome. Dr really listened and helped me over the phone and saved me a trip ... Exceeded all expectations, loved the service".

"Really good, brilliant...would happily use again".

"It was good. I knew exactly what I needed so it was easy to manage over the phone".

"It was all good. I still had to come in but it was faster. I liked that I didn't have to repeat myself to the next doctor cause they already knew what was wrong when I got there".

Above: Hauora Heretaunga Medical Director Dr Kiri Bird does some callbacks to arrange efficient, effective care for whānau.

Yarny Army Knits for Warmth

A dedicated group of knitters and crochet lovers recently gave TToH a pile of woollen clothing and blankets for babies and tamariki. TToH is grateful to those who give so freely of their time and craft skills to help mums keep their tamariki warm. Seventy per cent of babies in Hawke's Bay do not have enough woollen clothing to keep them warm in winter. The Yarny Army was co-founded in 2017 by Sarah McNair and Sue Stow.

One-Stop Shop for GP and Pharmacy

Whānau can now have their medication put into free blister packs at Taiwhenua Pharmacy, right beside our Hauora Heretaunga medical centre.

The pharmacy has been a great addition to Hauora because it offers whānau the convenience of a one-stop visit to the doctor.

GP visits at Hauora are free for enrolled whānau until they turn 25. After that it's only $16.

Ngā Mihi Nui ki a Koutou - Thank You to Everyone

Te Taiwhenua o Heretaunga not only gives a lot of aroha, it receives plenty from the community. We are particularly grateful for all the support we receive from volunteers, businesses, government agencies, councils, partners and alliances, and the general community. Their combined goodwill helps us to make a huge difference to the lives of many, many whānau.

A Village of Homes for Aspirational Whānau

Construction of Waingākau Village at Flaxmere began earlier this year and is now in full swing.

Te Taiwhenua o Heretaunga is building the village of approximately 120 high-quality, affordable homes to enable many more whānau to achieve home ownership and housing security.

Waingākau will have a mixture of homes, including 71 within four co-housing villages, and 52 in a traditional subdivision.

The homes will range in size from one to five bedrooms, catering for young and old, and single-person households to families.

They will be warm, dry and comfortable, with options for three, four or five-bedrooms. Features include open plan living, double master bedroom with en suite, full insulation, double-glazed windows and brick veneer.

To help whānau secure one of these homes, Waingakau offers multiple pathways to home ownership, including supported rent, market rent, rent-to-buy, supported ownership, and full home ownership.

The Sorted Kainga Ora programme is designed to help whānau become “mortgage ready” or get on to the pathway to homeownership through debt consolidation, setting goals and budgeting.

The TToH team will work with whānau through the most appropriate process for them.

For more information, email info@waingakau.co.nz or phone 021 475 807.

We also give back to our staff, acknowledging that they are the key to TToH's success.

Changing the Way We Think and Work

A massive organisational transformation is under way at Te Taiwhenua o Heretaunga.

Building upon the success of South Central Foundation, an internationally-acclaimed organisation providing care and support to indigenous Alaskans, TToH has developed a whole new way of working with whanau, called Ngākau Aotea.

Ngākau Aotea is based upon collaboration - between professional teams, and between professionals and the whānau who come to us for care and support.

Whānau equipped with the knowledge, skills, confidence and motivation to maintain their own good health are more likely to achieve other successes in life. So when they seek professional help at TToH, they'll play a key role in the decision-making around that.

TToH staff are undergoing a series of Ngākau Aotea training seminars to give them the tools to work collaboratively. This includes information about how other TToH teams are working with whānau.

Navigating The System

Above: The Mātātaki team at Te Taiwhenua o Heretaunga play out their roles as Navigators during a Ngākau Aotea training day. The Mātātaki's primary task is to assess the needs of whānau and help them access the most appropriate help. Flaxmere residents have open-door access to the Mātātaki team.

Recognition for Achievements

At Te Taiwhenua o Heretaunga, we love to celebrate staff achievement.

Staff are supported and encouraged to undertake ongoing professional development. Not only does it bring many benefits to the capability of our organisation, it enables us to be confident that we are offering the best care and support to the whānau we work with.

Civic Award for Rangatahi Coach

Congratulations to TToH Rangatahi Coach Patricia 'Ofa Raheke, who was honoured in this year's Hastings District Council Civic Awards.

PT (as she is known at TToH) founded the Talk to Me Flaxmere Trust and community group in 2015, to reduce the rate of youth suicide. Her hard work in this area has included programmes aimed at building resilience, leadership and strength of identity among rangatahi.

This mahi is over and above PT's role at TToH, her contributions as a long-serving trustee on the board for Flaxmere College, and her membership of the Hawke's Bay DHB's suicide-prevention Local Response Team.

George was nominated by GM Julia Ebbett and Dr Kiri Bird of TToH's medical and dental centre, Hauora Heretaunga.

Their submission included these words:

"As a leader George inspires and supports others to do great things. He has our back. His vision is closely aligned with community – the need for warm, secure housing, affordable and effective healthcare, social connection, jobs, good incomes, education and hope for the future. He also recognises that there is currently a lot missing from that picture for our population."

Financial Summary

During the financial year 1 July 2018 to 30 June 2019, Te Taiwhenua o Heretaunga recorded revenue of $24.1m and a net surplus of $395k.

An unqualified audit opinion was issued for the year ended 30 June 2019.

Revenues

During the current year revenue increased from $20.4m to $24.1m. Over the past four years, revenue has increased by 73%. In this year alone, there has been an 18% increase in revenue of $3.7m; several things have contributed to this uplift in revenue i.e. a full year of revenue from last year's acquisition, variations in a few existing contracts and the on-boarding of new contracts.

Net Profits

The overall result is a surplus of $395k. This is the third consecutive year where a surplus has been recorded. TToH continues to strive to balance our finances; the revenue increase is reflected in ongoing additional costs, to deliver the services to our whānau and community we serve. TToH receives few, if any, cost of living increases from existing contracts.

Asset Base Sheet

TToH is a reliable and solid organisation with a strong balance sheet. At 30 June 2019, TToH had accumulated reserves of $11.1m.

The organisation continues to have the ability to pay its debts when they fall due, through a managed cash flow. During the year the organisation repaid $793k of borrowings.

With a strong balance sheet, the organisation will continue to navigate the challenges and opportunities it encounters in the changing contractual environment in which it operates.

Financial History

The current assets of TToH have been built up over 30 years through commercial contracts with government agencies and the investment of the Trust's financial surpluses.

The assets have not been derived either directly or indirectly from Treaty Settlement funds.

Legally the assets belong wholly to the Trust and only Te Haaro can use them for the charitable purposes stated in the Trust Deed.

TToH has operated successfully for many years through informed decision making and careful management.
